Lessebo Paper is a boutique paper mill located in the forests of the south of Sweden that has been producing high-quality white and coloured uncoated paper since 1693.

The understanding of a sustainable relationship with nature is rooted in our culture. We have developed one of the most climate-friendly papers in the world, which is fully biodegradable and recyclable. All production site energy comes solely from biomass fuel. Our renewable excess energy supplies district heating to local homes.

The Lessebo Paper's CO<sub>2</sub> emissions related to the production are among the lowest in the entire paper industry worldwide. Respecting our surroundings today is to care about the generations of tomorrow. A 300-year-old philosophy, more relevant than ever.
